Ref: EPS Testimonial of excellent service while developing leaders and communities

To whom it may concern,

I initially agreed to be a shareholder and then director of Energy Procurement Services (EPS) because I was confident that under the leadership of Ray Murray, EPS would be an organisation that would be committed to the development of communities, provide professional services, and uphold the values of all its women shareholders.

Mr Murray has been the CEO of EPS for the last six years and during that time, has successfully grown the business and increased its clients base through meeting their needs beyond their expectations. He personally gets involved in the mentoring of local companies, provision of a variety of services and has been awarded numerous tenders for his effort and commitment. He has an in-depth knowledge of the renewable industry and has brought a wealth of experience, as well as attributes and skills, from his role as a Director of Pick n Pay.

He has mentored my fellow director and I in the leadership of EPS and inspired me to further my own growth by accepting the role of Managing Director at FTP Technologies. I have also had the pleasure of meeting his associate, Christine Wilke of Inspiravit Consulting, and completed an Insight profile and coaching session during my transition into a leadership role with FTP Technologies. This has raised my own self-awareness and increased my ability to focus on my leadership strengths within my current role. As my business continues to grow, and so does my staff complement, I see the necessity of contracting Inspiravit Consulting once again to focus on my team development and provide coaching.

I would not hesitate to recommend EPS and their associates, to support you in their offered services and wish them all the success in their future endeavours.

Kind regards,

Adene Steffen
Managing Director
